

Jessica Lopez Named to Ohio State Bar Association's Women in the Profession Section Council

Roetzel is pleased to announce that attorney Jessica Lopez of the firm's Akron office has been named to the Women in the Profession Section Council of the Ohio State Bar Association (OSBA). The section is comprised of legal professionals interested in furthering the professional and personal lives of women lawyers. The section also works to serve as a resource to help members communicate with each other and share knowledge and resources.

"We are very proud of Jessica and her appointment to the OSBA's Women in the Profession Section Council," said Ronald S. Kopp, Roetzel's Administrative Partner. "We're sure that she will contribute significantly to the Section and to the wider OSBA membership through her leadership and professionalism." Kopp also is president-elect of the OSBA.

Ms. Lopez focuses her practice on business and commercial litigation, intellectual property litigation, and general intellectual property law, with an emphasis on trademarks. Prior to joining Roetzel, she completed her Master of Laws in Intellectual Property, with a specialized focus on trademarks and trade secrets.

In addition to her position with the Women in the Profession Section Council, Ms. Lopez is also a member of the OSBA's Council of Delegates and the Akron Bar Association. She earned her undergraduate degree from the University of Michigan, and both her J.D. and LL.M from the University of Akron School of Law.
