5 THINGS

YOU DON'T KNOW ABOUT ME

► Zachary A. Liebetreu

1. I attended UCF for my undergraduate studies, where I met Tacko Fall – the 7-foot, 6-inch tall basketball player who later had a stint in the NBA. Did you know that in high school, he participated in the City of Palms tournament? It's a small world. Go Knights!
2. If I could share a meal with any famous historic figure, it would be John Adams. Adams was one of the founders of the United States with complex views on slavery. He was a skilled attorney, who was instrumental in negotiating the end of the American Revolution.
3. I would advise young attorneys to explore as many practice areas as you can in the legal field and beyond. There is plenty of work to be done and if you only focus on one area, you may be too bogged down to see other options.
4. Sitting on my office desk is a six-pack of Anheuser-Busch water, which the Red Cross distributed during the aftermath of Hurricane Ian. It reminds me of how far we have come, how far we have yet to go, and the necessity of good people helping good people.
5. My favorite hobbies are spear fishing, hunting and fishing. Getting into the outdoors is an excellent way to get exercise, get high-quality food and clear your mind. I also love our family spring skiing trip to Utah because of its gorgeous views, the exercise and how it has something for everyone.
